Chatterbox Play Chain

Change is always a challenge, but it also creates new opportunities; we hope these packs contribute in some small way new playful routines because all children and young people need to play. The impulse to play is innate. Play is a biological, psychological and social necessity, and is fundamental to the healthy development and well-being of individuals and communities

Do:

- Where possible involve your child in all aspects - preparing, doing and clearing up
 - Observe how your child (ren) responds to the different materials
 - Listen to children's ideas
 - Take photos
 - Share and celebrate success and failures
 - Remember there is no right way – it's about trying and being engaged
 - Supervise when using scissors, small objects, edible items
 - Try to embrace the mess! The smile on the children faces will be worth it!
 - Continue to follow COVID 19 Government advice and wash your own and your child's hands regularly for at least 20 seconds
 - Recycle as much of the contents in the pack as you can when finished!
